Parent’s Role
Your role during class is to be the direct supervisor of your child. The instructor will facilitate the class, presenting new and exciting physical challenges each week. Don’t be alarmed if your child is not participating right away. It usually takes 3-4 classes before children are comfortable with the environment and the teacher. Children will often throw fits, don’t know how to take turns and will suddenly run away to something else that has caught their attention. This is perfectly normal at this age. Along with exploring physical movement, we also work on the previous mentioned skills. This will take time, but with the young child, every month brings new growth and challenges. Our instructors have plenty of patience and understanding for the toddler stage and anticipate class to be a little chaotic at times. It’s okay. Around age 2.5, children are ready to enter Tumble Tykes. The teacher will communicate to you when the child is ready.
